3. Claims 1-7 are allowed.
4. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: the primary reason for allowance of the claimed invention is the inclusion, among other things, of the selection control circuit for comparing a first driving capacity serving as a driving capacity of the p-channel transistor selected in the reference circuit with a second driving capacity serving as a driving capacity of the n-channel transistor selected in the reference circuit, and outputting a control signal to the selection control circuit. None of the prior art discloses or fairly suggests a signal amplifier comprising the above features. Therefore, claims 1-7 are allowed.
